Common
Issues
and Resources

- Watch out for missing commas. Look up usage guidelines for comma usage.

- Don't be wordy. If you can possibly say it more simply, please do so.
- Use the active voice. I.e., "I shall always remember my first visit to Altair 4." is preferable to "My first visit to Altair 4 will always be remembered by me."

- More than anything else, proofread your work. Read it aloud so that you can hear yourself and get some idea of how it sounds and how it flows. Better yet, get someone else to read it for you. (Siri and Cortana will do just fine if you can't find a human.)
